

A close-up portrait of Emmanuelle Adda, a woman with long, dark, curly hair, smiling gently at the camera. She is wearing a dark, possibly black, top. The background is softly blurred, suggesting an indoor setting with natural light.

Emmanuelle Adda

Emmanuelle Adda, a star in stage shows and revues in different parts of the world including Les Miserables, Miss Saigon and West Side Story, a receiver of the prestigious IDEA international award representing her country in Hong Kong, and also a singer featured alongside the world renowned Philippine Madrigal Singers.

For those who don't know, Emmanuelle Adda is the granddaughter of national artist Andrea Veneracion. A select scholar for the Cultural Center of the Philippines, Emmanuelle Adda continued to hone her talents at AMDA, New York Academy for Music and Theatre, one of America's premier conservatories for the performing arts.

Inspired by legends such as Nat King Cole, Etta James and Edith Piaf, Emmanuelle has had the pleasure of paying tribute to them all over the world, performing for the Philippines' president, the 9/11 New York Stephen Siller Foundation, the annual Maison & Objet in Paris and the international Miss Earth pageant on stage and national television.

Emmanuelle Adda is not like other artists who think that music is mere entertainment. She dreams of travelling and singing to different audiences and most of all, she believes that performing is an art form, a craft that she has been mastering ever since she was a kid. She prefers singing renditions, singing them with the way she knows best—with soul and style.

Now Emmanuelle is making her dreams come true, cruising the world performing her very own one woman cabarets for international audiences, enchanting them with her diverse repertoire. Now is your chance to share a precious moment with her as she sings to you with her soulful voice.

williamclare.com - 727-789-4594