

What better way to connect mankind to the planet than through songs? 2B1 World is dedicated to opening hearts and encouraging change. Rhythm has no language barrier, music is the key to connection.

2B1 World offers a unique take on classic songs, bringing rhythms from multiple cultures and an energy like no other that quickly spreads through the audience. The performers have sung their message all around the world and in their travels, they've seen our world's environmental issues first hand. Through their performance, 2B1 World inspires you to think before you throw anything away.

They are also very committed to educating and motivating the youth about their impact on the environment, taking any opportunity to work with them and allowing them to develop a voice.

For over a decade, Kelsey Rae has led the troupe in the direction of environmental awareness. She has belonged to the stage since age 5 when she first performed in the musical Annie. She later found her powerful voice while continuing to perform in musical theatre and is now using it to inspire and build community.
